vehicle. And I think that we ought to consider keeping this for that purpose. I'd like to ask Senator Pam Brown a question, if I may?

SENATOR COORDSEN: Senator Brown, would you respond to a question?

SENATOR BROWN: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: Senator Brown, you read the book Frankenstein, didn't you?

SENATOR BROWN: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And isn't it a tremendously different presentation from what you get when you watch the Boris Karloff films?

SENATOR BROWN: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: The creature's name was Adam, is that correct?

SENATOR BROWN: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: He knew how to speak French; that was his language that he developed, is that correct?

SENATOR BROWN: Um-hum.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: And he had read books and done things to develop his mind...thank you, that's all that I will ask you...to develop his mind. But because he was made to appear so hideous, and Mary Shelley does not...Wollstonecraft Shelley, for Senator Tyson, who is a stickler, Wollstonecraft, Mary Shelley, did not tell how the monster was created. She simply wrote about the individual using his equipment and his knowledge of the natural sciences to come up with this concoction. And if you read it you get the impression that maybe some animal parts had even been made...used. But this creature...and I'm going to tie it into this bill; the bill itself is not a monstrosity; the
